

Marcia Annisette is Associate Professor of Accounting and Associate Dean, Students at the Schulich School of Business, York University. Dr Annisette holds a PhD in accounting from the University of Manchester, is a Fellow Certified Chartered Accountant of the UK and a CPA CGA of Canada. Her major research interest is in the social organization of the accountancy profession. She has won several "best article of the year awards" for her work on the development and international diffusion of professional accountancy and has produced seminal works in the sociology of the accountancy profession. She is joint editor of Critical Perspectives on Accounting and sits on the editorial boards of 11 other accounting journals. Dr Annisette has previously held academic appointments at universities in England, the USA, Spain, and Trinidad and Tobago.

Garry Carnegie is a Professor of Accounting and Head, School of Accounting at RMIT University. Prior to joining academe, he gained experience in the IT industry, professional accounting services and in the financial services industry. Professor Carnegie has been employed in Australian higher education institutions since 1985 and, prior to joining RMIT University in 2010, he held full-time professorial posts at Deakin University, Melbourne University Private/The University of Melbourne, and at the University of Ballarat (now Federation University Australia). His current research is broadly concerned with governance and accountability from both contemporary and historical perspectives. Between 1996 and 2007 he was the editor of Accounting History and, since 2008, he has been the journal's joint editor. He was the Convenor of the 8th Asia Pacific Interdisciplinary Research in Accounting (APIRA) conference that was held at RMIT University, Melbourne in July 2016.

Carolyn Fowler is an Associate Professor in the School of Accounting and Commercial Law. Her research focuses on strategy and management accounting, the use of technology in accounting, the accounting profession and education, and accounting history with a particular emphasis on accounting and accountants in colonial New Zealand. Carolyn is Joint Editor of Accounting History, on the editorial board of the Journal of Accounting and Organizational Change, and a director of the Accounting and Finance Association of Australia and New Zealand (AFAANZ). Previously, she was the Convenor of the Accounting History Special Interest Group of AFAANZ. Her teaching areas include undergraduate and postgraduate management accounting, accounting history, and accounting information systems.

Lee Parker is a Distinguished Professor in Accounting in the School of Accounting at RMIT University, Melbourne, Australia, and visiting Professor at the University of Glasgow, Scotland. Previous academic posts include the Universities of Glasgow, Dundee, Monash, Griffith, Flinders, Adelaide South Australia, St Andrews, and London (Royal Holloway) as well as visiting professorships in the USA, UK, Australasia, Asia and the Middle East. His research has been published in over 200 articles and books on management and accounting internationally. Professor Parker is joint founding editor of the internationally prominent ISI listed interdisciplinary research journal Accounting Auditing & Accountability Journal and serves on over 20 journal editorial boards internationally. His academic leadership roles have included President of the Academy of Accounting Historians (USA), the American Accounting Association Public Interest section and Vice-President International of the American Accounting Association. Professor Parker is a specialist qualitative, interdisciplinary researcher in the following fields: Strategic Management and Corporate Governance; Accounting and Management History; Social and Environmental Accountability; Public/Nonprofit Sector, and Qualitative and Historical Research Methodology.

Keith Robson is Professor of Accounting at HEC, Paris. He has held posts at Aberystwyth University, University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology, University of Manchester, and Cardiff University. Keith is an Editor-in-Chief of Accounting, Organizations and Society, former associate editor of British Accounting Review, and serves on the boards of Accounting, Auditing & Accountability Journal, Critical Perspectives on Accounting, International Journal of Auditing, Journal of Contemporary Accounting and Organizational Change, and the British Accounting Review. He has authored articles in accounting, management and organization studies journals (Accounting, Auditing & Accountability Journal; Accounting and Business Research, Accounting Business and Financial History; Accounting, Organizations and Society; Critical Perspectives on Accounting; Economy and Society; European Accounting Review; Human Relations, Organization; Research in the Sociology of Organizations, Science in Context). His research interests include performance measurement; socio-political studies of accounting regulation; the profession, professional firms and professionalization; management control in schools; auditing methodologies.