

Carolyn Cordery

Dr Carolyn Cordery is Professor in Accounting at Aston University and also attached to Victoria University of Wellington. In 2015 she won the Robert W. Gibson Manuscript Award for her paper in Accounting History 'Accounting History and Religion: a review of studies and a research agenda'. Her research focuses on not-for-profit organisations' accounting and accountability, including charities and sports clubs. She is also interested in improving the regulation of, and accounting in, these organisations. Carolyn is Joint Editor of Third Sector Review (the Journal of Australia and New Zealand Third Sector Research), on the editorial board of Accounting History and also Accounting, Auditing & Accountability Journal.

Working title of plenary address:

"Religious Entities, Accounting and State Regulation"

Christopher Napier

Christopher Napier is Professor of Accounting in the School of Management at Royal Holloway University of London. After studying Mathematics and Philosophy at Oxford University, he qualified as a Chartered Accountant with Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. (now KPMG) in London. In 1979, he joined the faculty at the London School of Economics, and in 1996 he was appointed Professor of Accounting at the University of Southampton, where he gained his PhD degree. He moved to Royal Holloway in 2006. Christopher is the author or co-author of some 80 research papers, books and contributions to edited volumes, covering a wide range of interests: accounting history, theory of financial reporting, specific accounting issues (retirement benefits and intangibles), accounting and law, corporate governance, and Islamic accounting. Christopher was a member of Council of the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales (ICAEW) from 1997 to 2000.

Working title of plenary address:

"Governors and Directors: Competing Models of Governance in Historical Perspective"